

To our supporters,

Thank you so much for your devotion to the Landmarks Foundation of Montgomery. For 52 years, we have served our community as the primary advocate for Montgomery's historic architecture, story, and future. It is because of you that we've been able to sustain our mission for so long and it will be because of you that we will move forward into a bright future.

In response to the Covid19 Pandemic, the ensuing economic pressure, and the recent social justice movement, the staff and board have taken the opportunity to reimagine Old Alabama Town and move it in a sustainable direction. We will temporarily close through September. This move gives the organization the flexibility to address our full mission. We will reopen with themed tours, given at specific times, addressing a wide range of topics from architectural history, urban slavery, labor movements in Alabama, to the development of neighborhoods, historic everyday life, and topics in historic preservation. These tours may be paired with offsite tours around Montgomery as well. It is a different concept, but it is one that will push us into the future.

We will continue to offer field trip tours with little to no change. At this moment, Landmarks has engaged with a company called Time Looper. They are an app developer centered around presenting historic and natural sites using virtual and augmented reality. Our app will be free to everyone, but we'll also use it to provide virtual field trips to schools across the state. In the present, it is an alternative to in person field trips and in the future, it will help us reach underserved schools, particularly those in the Montgomery Public School system.

The Landmarks Foundation believes in the long-term success of Montgomery. Moving forward, our goal is to build this organization to be a partner and asset to all. We will embrace new friendships, lean on old ones, and contribute to our city's progress. Landmarks will expand its impact with special programming, events, and new preservation focused programming.

Keep up with us through the autumn and into the spring on social media. We will provide updates as we move forward. Thank you for your support. If you're not a member, please join us on our website or make a donation, because every bit helps us move forward into the future.

Sincerely,

Collier Neeley
